Episodes #X01-#X13

Please note that the episodes as they appear should match the running order, with episode #X01 airing first.

Episode #X01 MOVIN' ON UP

Hoping to integrate into human society, the porcine Sytmington family decides to trade in their barnyard lifestyle and head for the big city. Despite the blatant protest of local resident, Ike Stump, the Stymingtons move into the suburban town of Schitcler Falls, and the brave piggy pioneers confront the prejudices of their new pestering and intrusive human neighbors.

Episode #X02 PIG SKIN HERO

As the star player for the high school football team, Chuckie Stymington becomes a local celebrity, gracing the cover of newspapers and associating with beautiful cheerleaders. But Chuckie's touchdown victories abruptly stop when he discovers that the footballs are made out of pigskin. The town quickly turns against their porcine star, until Aunt Naomi pays the swine teen a visit and reveals that Chuckie's Uncle Jonas was once a proud pigskin football for the legendary Arkansas Razorbacks team.

Episode #X03 HIGH ON THE HOG

Hoping to save his family from financial crisis, Phil Stymington concocts a sneaky plan to win money at the racetrack. Using his special barnyard acquired knowledge of "horse" language, he eavesdrops on the thoroughbreds' pre-race conversation to determine the winner. Meanwhile, to contribute to the family's income, Clara secretly takes a part–time job at the local hangout, The Mud Pit, and becomes the mud wrestling sensation, Clara "Pretty In Pink" Stymington.

Episode #X04 LA CAGE AU LEO

Clara's Uncle Leo, a filthy and despicable pig, pays the Stymington family a visit and disrupts the entire neighborhood. Clara and Phil argue over the surprise arrival of the uncouth family "hog." When Phil suggest throwing Uncle Leo back to the barn where he belongs, Clara goes ballistic and refuses to play host to Phil's top client, the German car dealer, the Von Dollermans. Feeling guilty, Uncle Leo decides to help Phil by dressing in women's clothes and impersonating the Stymington homemaker, Clara.

Episode #X05 HOG ISLAND

A proud and loyal piglet, April is outraged when the family forgets to commemorate the pig holiday, All Hogs Day. The Stymington's re-connect with their swine values and traditions when a mythical pig god, The Grand Porcenus, transports the family to Hog Island and encourages the sidetracked swines to embrace their pigness.

Episode #X06 PIG IN HONG KONG

Chuckie is ashamed to bring his father to school for "Salute To Parents Who Have A Fulltime Job" week and is teased when the students learn his father sells cars at the local "lemon" sales lot. Chuckie is spared complete humiliation when a Hollywood producer casts Phil Stymington for the lead role in his blockbuster action-adventure, "Pig in Hong Kong," and Chuckie becomes the envy of his classmates.

Episode #X07 THE HOG WHISPERER

The Stymingtons are set to make their local television debut in a weekend feature film, "The Pigs Next Door." Ike Stump intervenes with one of his numerous attempts to rid the pigs of "his" neighborhood by recruiting "The X-treme Hog Caller," a mythical, shadowy figure whose sinister hog calls set the Stymingtons into a wild frenzy. The video footage is soon entitled "When Pigs Go Bad," and the Stymingtons are forced to appear in the court of law and pay for their on-air spectacles.

Episode #X08 STAND BY YOUR HAM

Clara longs for a romantic date with her husband Phil Stymington. To attract his attention, she improves her appearance by applying makeup and decorates the house with romantic candles. Clara eventually wins Phil's heart, and the couple becomes the first pigs in history to celebrate a marriage ceremony to formalize their mutual love.

Episode #X09 CHUCKIE'S IN LOVE

Tired of socializing with foreign exchange students, the school janitor, and nerdy band members, Chuckie is desperate for some new friends. At the veterinarian's office, he instantly falls in love with a blind girl, but trouble soon arises as he tries to conceal his pig identity from his new accepting companion. Meanwhile, Ike Stump provokes the Stymingtons to purchase a home entertainment center from the local discount do-it-yourself store and torments them as they haphazardly attempt to build their new piece of furniture.

Episode #X10 PINK PANTHER PARTY

April is on her best behavior for "Bring Your Daughter to Work" day at Phil's Jackson Motors job until she discovers the "sliced pig" advertisement in a butcher shop window. April initiates a protest to get rid of the obnoxious and offensive poster and is furious when her dad, Phil, refuses to join her plight. When Clara, the Stymington homemaker, reveals that Phil was once the revered Abbie Hoofman, leader of the infamous animal rights activist group, the Pink Panther Party, April soon gains a newfound respect for her father.

Episode #X11 THE HAMCHUARIAN CANIDATE

In order to pay off a debt to "Joey Bag of Donuts," Jungle George plans to demolish the Schlichter Falls Library and open the new profitable RV center to attract tourists and make instant money. With the ruling Councilmen Schlichter gone, Jungle George needs a new candidate that will allow him to follow through with his sinister plans. Jungle George cons Phil Stymington into running for the Mayoral office, but Phil soon regrets dipping his hooves into the "dirty" politics.

Episode #X12 HOG SQUAD

The Blue Flu epidemic infects the entire town, and the local police squads are forced to stay home sick. When their ranks are filled with incompetent department administrators, the Schlichter Falls crime rate soars. Ike Stump attempts to form a neighborhood watch patrol after his morning newspaper is stolen, but Phil Stymington is the only volunteer!

Episode #X13 SWINE AXIENTY

Jungle George's horrible leadership at Jackson's Motors leads to decreased sales and morale. Phil Stymington wins ownership of Jackson's Motors in a high-rolling card game, and he attempts to improve the fortune of the failing business. But after taking over the responsibility of the sleazy car dealership, he soon realizes that it is not easy being the "boss."
